NEW WEBSITE LAUNCHED

www.nolathane.com.au

Following the launch of Nolathane's Edition 10 print catalogue in late 2009, comes the most comprehensive resource for suspension components available on the web. What Nolathane couldn't fit in print has been utilised online. Nolathane's marketing manager Andy Nolan believes "This new website will transform the way consumers, mechanics and retailers research suspension products for their own or their customers vehicle".

The website offers valuable content including videos on symptoms of worn suspension, how to diagnose worn components and flagging key service suspension items for passenger, commercial and performance vehicles.

Simply search by vehicle or Nolathane part number to reveal extensive vehicle and product information, including schematic drawings of your vehicles suspension system, product images, product specifications, kit contents, downloadable install guides and important fitment notes.
